Re: Mars, Moon Mysteries

Dear Sir, Your interesting story about Martian mysteries (Aug-Sept) was almost exclusive in mentioning the huge and inexplicable shadow on Mars' surface as detected by Phobos 2's infrared camera; which also spotted a streaking object before all telemetry ceased.

The 'experts' blamed a meteor or a moonlet for ramming the probe before a cloak of silence was draped over the entire event. Don't our rulers often pull that stunt when frightened?

Since the camera was pointed down at the surface, only an upward-moving object (coming from below, that is) could have appeared in its narrow field of view before said ramming. Exactly how many meteors or moonlets have the 'experts' ever observed moving upwards from any planetary surface?

In 1968, as Apollo 8 first emerged from behind the Moon's night-time side, pilot Frank Borman excitedly told his Houston controller that he and Anders and Lovell had seen countless "luminous areas" on the dark side which he likened to "pools of molten lava". Since then, no further mention has ever been made of Borman's lights—a conspiracy of silence about the most important discovery we ever made about that 'dead world'.

Ditto about other lunar enigmas such as intensely bright light flashes—in Apollo 16's case, a flashing light that NASA had previously code-named "Annabelle"—and even light flares lasting an hour or more. NASA's Dr El Baz called such flashes "tremendous things" that were "not natural", but NASA officially fobs them off as "Lunar Transient Phenomena". (How very quaint.)

Wilkins and Moore wrote in The Moon (1960) that there might have been life-forms on the Moon that were utterly unlike any on Earth. Not bad for two hopelessly orthodox astronomers, but are such weirdo life-forms still extant and creating light and other phenomena on what allegedly is 'our' Moon?

Yours truly,

Re: Comets and Prophets

Dear Duncan, For some time now I have been going to write to you to congratulate you on your magazine and to share a few thoughts with you. I must say that out of all the material in your magazine which I, as a natural health practitioner, and also as a Messianic Yahudi (Jew) by religion, find to be extremely valuable, the part I find to be the most inspiring and which gives me the most enjoyment is your editorials. Absolutely brilliant!

However, to move on, there is one particular subject on which I would like to share some insights. I was reminded of this a couple of days ago when I heard that next year the northern hemisphere is expecting the largest shower of meteorites ever known; also, that a comet is going to pass close to the Earth. Now I'm not too sure on the truth of this: I believe it did come from scientific circles—you may be able to verify it.

Anyway, what I wanted to share was the similarity of three prophecies, one from Nostradamus, another from Mother Shipton, and a third from the Book of Revelation. All three appear to point towards the appearance of a comet (or something of the like) which is the beginning (or warning) of the end of this age and the times of trouble that are associated with it. (Like humans, the planet has to go through a 'healing crisis'.)

Without further ado I will put the three side by side for you to see:

Nostradamus—"The great star will burn for seven days and the cloud will make the sun appear double. The great mastiff will howl all night long when the great Pontiff changes his abode."

Mother Shipton—"A fiery dragon will cross the sky, Six times before this earth will die... For seven days and seven nights, Man will watch this awesome sight." "The dragon's tail is but a sign, For mankind's fall and man's decline."

The Revelation of Yahushua HaMashiach (Chapter 10)—"And I saw another mighty messenger coming down from heaven, clothed with a cloud. And a rainbow was on his head, his face like the sun, and his feet like pillars of fire...and he set his right foot on the sea and his left on the land, and he cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roars. And when he cried out seven thunder uttered their voices...and he swore by Him who lives forever and ever..."

Now while the Seven Thunders are not recorded in Revelation and are sealed, we are given a glimpse of them in the Tanakh (Old Testament)—Psalm 29 to be exact—I will not reproduce it here, but the general picture is one of earthquakes, fires, floods, etc. I'm sure you get the general idea!

I believe that the event outlined above will begin the most dangerous time in mankind's history, with great deceptions for the unwary.

Best wishes for the future of NEXUS. Keep up the good work.
John S., Coffs Harbour, NSW.

PS: I loved the article on the history of banking in this issue.

Re: Essiac Supplies

Dear Duncan, I wrote to you some months ago regarding my difficulty obtaining some original Essiac for my mother in Perth who had just finished some intensive oxygen therapy. Since then, with help from NEXUS Magazine, we have tracked down a Canadian supplier who manufactures the original recipe, after the formula was signed over to them in 1978.

My sister is now supplying several naturopaths in Perth and should anybody be interested in obtaining a regular supply of the original Essiac formula, they may do so by contacting: Essiac Importers & Distributors, phone (008) 65 8373 (toll free), or ph/fax (09) 245 1748.

I would like to thank you, Duncan, as it was through your terrific publication that we first became aware of Essiac, and now have first-hand proof and knowledge of just how effective this safe and natural formula can be.

Re: Microzymas and Magnets

Dear Duncan, We were indeed happy to have the very important book on Pasteur's plagiarism of Béchamp's work reviewed in the last issue. We have two massive volumes of Béchamp's Les Microzymas, his greatest work, sent from France. Alas, in French! Can some generous soul with a good working knowledge of French/English and biology, translate these two rare, valuable books as a project and great service to all mankind? I will wait with bated breath!

Before ending, we feel we must make a remark about the Adams Pulsed Motor article. He states magnets can do no "work" as such.

As powerful bipolar magnets influence the genetics of seeds, and, as our consultant scientist has pointed out, have been proven to produce results which enhance growth and root structure, also as the Oxford Dictionary defines "work" as "exertion of force in overcoming resistance, or PRODUCING MOLECULAR CHANGE", then we must always be very careful to correctly define "work" from "effect".

What an informative and very popular magazine NEXUS has become! Duncan, make sure it never goes out of print!

Re: Professor J. R. R. Searl

Dear NEXUS, Thank you for the article that appeared in your magazine about Prof. John R. R. Searl. There has been great interest generated about his work.

We have been approached by some prospective manufacturers in Australia to build the SEG (Searl Effect Generator) and the IGV (Inverse-G Vehicle). An unmanned craft will be built in New Zealand.

Unfortunately, even for this noble work, there are people who are only after money and are out to cheat and deceive you. We are still searching for the manufacturer and people of integrity to further the production of this technology. It is true that there is a great deal of money to be made from this, but that can not be the driving factor.

Years ago, Professor Searl was offered £500,000 to sell his technology outright. He refused. Professor Searl is not a man of means. He has a very limited income, yet he would not sell out. John Searl wants the world to have this technology, not just a few people. The producer of the SEG and Inverse-G Vehicle must be honest, sincere and of the highest moral character.

Any manufacturers or financial backers should contact me at: 373 Rock Beach Road, Rochester, New York 14617-1316, USA, phone (716) 467 2694.

Thank you again for your very valuable help in furthering this work.

Sincerely, John A. Thomas, Jr, New York, USA.
